PA NEWC OBSERVES

One more day of 1942, and The New Year 1943 will be in our midst. According to local programs, a subdued and quiet welcome will be accorded the new year.

The old year is apparently going to leave a reminder as it passes on its way, in the flood conditions that exist around the western end of the state. Steady rains of several days, and melting snows have caused streams to rise in many sectors to flood stage.

Apparently the Mahoning river which comes into Lawrence county from Ohio rose much more rapidly than streams that enter the county from the area of Pennsylvania to the north, as the Mahoning was out over its banks yesterday.

* * *

Reports which reached city police headquarters this morning stated the Neshannock creek had overflowed its embankments near the Paper mill. A report was also received that the water in the Big Run was almost even with the girders of the Moravia street bridge.

Jap Supply Lines Steadily Bombed Near Guadalcanal

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—American air and sea forces today were bombing Japanese supply lines in the south Pacific in an around-the-clock effort to starve Nipponese troops on vital Guadalcanal into submission.

Commander Dwight Dexter, a New York coastguardsman, who was in command of the landing barges when U. S. forces invaded Guadalcanal, brought back word that isolated Japs were suffering from disease and malnutrition.

He left the embattled island on Nov. 5 but reports from marine sources more than a month later and just confirmed also stated that the Japs there were suffering from effects of lack of food and supplies. Many Japanese dead found by American marine patrols died from starvation and not from bullets, according to the marines.

WITH ALLIED FORCES, on the Tunisian Front, Dec. 28—(Delayed).—Units of Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps were reported today to have made their way into Tunisia from Libya when they are engaging French and American units south of Pont du Fahs.

The fighting was renewed on the southern sector when French infantry, supported by a company of American tanks, clashed with the Axies forces.

Major Jacob Shapiro of Brookline, Mass., commands the tanks operating with the French troops of Gen. Henri Honore Giraud.

The battle started when the Allied forces, advancing in two columns, attacked an Axis position 10 miles southwest of Pont Du Fahs, 30 miles southwest of Tunis, the capital.

The northern Allied column of French troops and American tank forces gained their immediate objective, a strip of high ground, after

Last Group Of Selectees Called By Local Board Two Depart This Morning

More city men, called up for service by Local Board Two and who were originally scheduled to leave for New Cumberland, Pa., December 23, but who received a week's respite because of the holiday, departed this morning via the Pennsylvania railroad to begin their army duties.

The usual farewell ceremony was conducted for them at the depot by the Lawrence County Service Men's Aid Association, the men being addressed by Capt. Carl Andreasen and Charles E. Allen. They were also given the usual gifts.

There was a large crowd of friends and relatives on hand to see the men off, and they were given a break when the rain let up until after the men had departed.

The group which went today completed the December calls, and no more will leave until around the middle of January.

Rivers Reach High Stage In This District

Shenango Was Nearing 16 Foot Stage At Noon—Other Streams High

WEATHER CHANGE MAY HALT RISE

Continued Rains Of Several Days And Melting Snows Cause Of Conditions

When rain which had been falling here almost continuously for more than 48 hours, turned into snow, threat of a possible flood locally was somewhat removed, but danger of high water here still exists. The Shenango at noon stood at 15.8 feet and was continuing to rise at a rate of a little better than one-tenth of a foot an hour. With flood stage at around 17 feet, it still had more than a foot to go before the water would spread out over its banks in the city proper.

The Neshannock appeared to be stationary at noon today, very little rise having been noted since morning.

Even though a flood may not occur, the high water has already caused much inconvenience and some damage.

Three Highways Affected

The rising waters had closed three district highways this morning, Edwin O. Reed, county superintendent of the state highway department, reported.

Detours were ordered on:

Japs Are Facing Their Own Bataan On Guadalcanal

Navy Reports From 155 To 165 Japs Killed In Latest Ground Battle

TWO JAP CARGO SHIPS ARE SUNK

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—While U. S. planes sank two more Nipponese cargo ships, the navy reported today that American forces on Gradalcanal Island have wiped out between 155 and 165 more Jap troops as the enemy is apparently facing its own Bataan.

In one attack, well supplied army and marine corps troops on the embattled island killed 114 Japs with a loss of only two of their own men. Marines, in another encounter, killed between 30 and 40 more Japanese in an exchange of artillery and mortar fire.

The marines later ambushed and killed 11 more of the enemy and lost only two killed and one wounded.

Meanwhile, U. S. pilots, who hold air superiority in the skies over the Solomons, carried out two attacks on enemy cargo vessels in Wickham Anchorage on the coast of Vangunu Island in the New Georgia group of the Solomons.

Flood Develops At Pittsburgh

Waters May Reach Ten Feet Above Flood Stage By Tonight

RAIN AND MELTING SNOW BRING RISE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 30.—The worst December flood in the past century swirled into Pittsburgh today as federal weather forecasters revised predictions for the sixth time and estimated the crest would hit around 10 feet above flood stage in Pittsburgh tonight.

At the "Point" at the top of the famous Golden Triangle in the downtown district, the water-guage recorded 30.8 feet at 9:30 this morning. Weatherman W. S. Brotzman, in his latest prediction, said a peak of between 34 and 35 feet would be reached sometime this evening.

Flood stage at the "Point," where the Allegheny and the Monongahela rivers converge to form the Ohio, is 25 feet.

The anticipated peak of 35 feet however, will still be considerably lower than the record-breaker of March 1936, when the rivers crested at 46 feet and caused millions of dollars worth of damage.

A three day rain and melting snow sent rivers in the tri-state area on their post-Christmas rampage. The biggest December flood heretofore recorded in Pittsburgh was 30.4 feet in 1927. Before that running back to 1847, no flood exceeded 30 feet.

Over Banks

River streets fringing the Golden Triangle were barricaded by police today as the waters lapped over their banks. City police ordered residents of low sections, particularly on the North Side, to evacuate during the night, and warned merchants in the lower sections of the downtown area of the impending danger.

Elsewhere throughout the tri-state area, where the rainfall in the past 24 hours has averaged 1.3 inches, streets and cellars were floods, some cars were submerged and several families were marooned.

U. S. Army engineers said flood control dams spotted at strategic positions were operating satisfactorily and had sufficient reserved capacity to weather the test, their most severe since being constructed in 1936.

Hunts Boat Here To Rescue Pigs In Flooded Area

Flood waters of the Mahoning river near the Mt. Jackson road bridge has endangered the lives of 200 pigs and this morning Ed. Ryan was scurrying about the city trying to locate motorboats or motors which could be attached to boats to rescue the porkers. According to Ryan, the pigs are marooned near the Powder Mill road.

Ryan went to city council in hope of securing a motorboat. However, the city has no motorboat and felt compelled to keep the life-boat ready for possible rescue work here as the Neshannock creek overflowed its embankment at the Paper Mill dam. Big Run is almost even with Moravia street bridge girders, and the Shenango river is rising.

Housewives Soon Will Buy Unsliced Bread

By ALVIN ROSENFELD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Within a little more than two weeks, America's housewives will begin buying a new type of white bread—unsliced but enriched.

An order by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard—"food distribution order No. 1"—affecting the nation's entire baking industry and cutting out the "frills" of baking stops slicing of bread for home use and enriches all white bread. The order becomes effective Jan. 18.

To prevent price rises, conserve bread supplies and labor and provide for a "more economical distribution of bread under wartime conditions," the order restricts the varieties of bread to be made and brings consignment selling of bread to a halt.

At the same time, the OPA acted to "eliminate price inequalities be-

At Martins Ferry, further down the stream, a 36-foot flood stage was reached this morning and a 45-foot stage was forecast by nightfall.

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Dec. 30.—A grand-scale Russian offensive to recapture the oil-rich Caucasus from the Nazis developed swiftly today with the Red army command sending a strong force of troops rushing southward across the Kalmuck Steppes to aid a Soviet force striking northward against the Germans from the southeast of Nalchik.

Soviet troops ran roughshod through the area southwest of Stalingrad after capturing the vital rail center of Kotelnikov to capture Yashgul, 180 miles south of Stalingrad and only 185 miles by motor road to Nalchik in the mid-Caucasus.

Yashgul lies 55 miles southeast of Elista, provincial capital in the Kalmuck Steppes, and its capture marked a rapid advance by a wing of the Soviet army which struck southward from the strategic Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway and took Torgovaya, 55 miles southeast of Kotelnikov.

Some Changes In Liquor Laws Likely

New Legislature May Take Action

State Is Still Over Quota Of Retailers As Proposed On Population Basis

QUOTA PROGRAM MAY BE REVISED

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30—Legislation strengthening the liquor laws was being prepared today for introduction at the 135th regular session of the General Assembly when it opens at the state capitol on January 5.

One provision of the liquor act looked upon with disfavor by the Liquor Control Board, which directs Pennsylvania's $100,000,000 liquor monopoly, permits county judges to set aside a license revocation of the board for infractions of the law.

Another section of the law marked for revision is the provision establishing a quota of one liquor retailer for every 1000 population. The commonwealth's liquor laws were enacted by the 1933 legislature but the quota law did not become effective until 1939.

Over Retail Quota

Despite more rigid enforcement in recent years, Pennsylvania is still over the quota of retailers proposed by the legislature on the basis of population. The liquor board disclosed that since the act became operative, only about 1,000 licenses have been cancelled for violations.

The board stated that there are 15,228 licenses excluding club and hotel permits, now authorized while the total should be 9,901 on the basis of population. There are also slightly more than 5,000 club and hotel licenses, which are not affected by the quota law.

Liquor board officials indicated that the legislature would be asked to amend the law to make it difficult for clubs and hotels to obtain a license and to make them liable to more provisions of the law.

Some Suggestions

Board Chairman Fred T. Gelder has sent a report to Gov. Arthur H. James outlining the board's activities for the last two years. It was believed a number of suggestions contained in the report will be studied by legislative leaders for possible adoption.

Reports that a legislative bloc was planning to force through a complete revision of the liquor system and return alcohol control to the counties were denounced by Gelder. The proponents of the change favored the Brooks high license law of pre-prohibition days, termed by Gelder, an ideal "theoretical law".

The board chairman pointed out that the old law made every state and local election a "wet and dry" fight for control. Gelder added that he believed Governor-elect Edward Martin opposed any change in the present liquor control system.

HUGE AREA IS ADDED TO STATE GAME LAND

(Special To The News)

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Dec. 30—Sportsmen here received with joy yesterday the anonuncement that over 5,000 acres of the "Barrens" in Centre county is to be an area for public hunting. The tract acquired by the State Game Commission is famous for its deer and small game hunting, including ruffed grouse and turkey.

Located about four miles northwest of State College, it will be known as State Game Lands No. 176.

tween wheat and flour" by raising wholesale price ceilings on flour 10 per cent.

The ceilings set dollars-and-cents prices for sale by millers of flour made from wheat, semolina and farina at uniform, nation-wide prices.

Not To Bring Price Increase

The increase, OPA said, "should not necessitate an increase in the present retail bread prices, because the higher flour costs will be completely offset by simultaneously introduced savings in the manufacture, packaging and distribution costs of bakers affected under the agriculture department program."

Nevertheless, the ceilings will cause a 40 to 75 cent increase per barrel in family flour sold to consumers. This flour represents about 35 percents of the total flour output.

OPA's prices, replacing temporary ceilings, will "allow for higher wheat prices without recourse to subsidy." Both agriculture department and OPA officials, it was learned, are attempting to steer the nation's farm economy away from the subsidy system.

Wickard's order enriching all white bread—instead of approximately 70 percent—is a follow-up of a statement at his first press conference after he was appointed food administrator. He then called for an end to the waste of food, saying "this county can continue being the best fed in the world if we plan sensibly and end waste."

The order prevents bakers from "taking back" from retail stores unsold bread and using it as animal feed. It further prohibits making of fancy breads and "twisting" and cross-panning in pan bread making.

ter had submerged this highway for a distance, and detours were placed at Moravia and Wampum.

Route 551, the blacktop route from Edenburg to Pulaski.

The Harbor-to-Walmo Pinchot road. Shenango river floodwaters covered it along the stretch near the Harbor bridge.

In mid-morning Superintendent Reed said his maintenance forces were prepared to erected detours on one or two other roads if the waters continue their climb. Route 18, at Willow Grove, was being threatened he said, by the rising Mahoning river in the lowland below the Seventh ward.

No Railroad Trouble Here

Railroads in the immediate territory surrounding New Castle reported no trouble, but the Pennsylvania railroad's Erie and Ashtabula division office here said floodwaters of the Mahoning in the Niles and Warren, Ohio, sections brought about the re-routing of their passenger trains over the Baltimore & Ohio tracks from Niles to Niles Junction.

Pennsylvania freights, carrying war cargoes, were moving through the 20 inches of water without trouble.

In many sections of the county inconvenience was reported because of the high water. Homes built in low-lying sections have their cellars flooded, and pumps were noticed going in the downtown section as cellars were beginning to fill water seeping up through the ground from the rivers. Sewers were also backing up into homes in low districts in the city, it was reported.

The road between East Brook and Lakewood was partly covered by the high water from Hettenbaugh Run last night, a checkup revealed, while above Lakewood on the road to Neshannock Falls, summer cottages were isolated.

Everywhere one went in this section of the state, there was evidence of flood conditions. One local man who drove over much of the territory between here and Meadville yesterday, stated that north of the city, all streams were over their banks in many places, and roads were covered in many spots.

East and south of New Wilmington the Little Neshannock was reported to have overflown its banks and flooded the lowlands in various sections, while in the vicinity of Neshannock Falls two and a half miles southeast of New Wilmington, the water was over the roads in the low-lying sections.

Vaccinate Thousands Against Smallpox

Worst Outbreak Of Disease In Decade; No Deaths Anticipated, However

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—Thousands of Pennsylvanians were being vaccinated against smallpox today in the wake of the worst outbreak of the disease in a decade, but state officials said there was no cause for undue alarm. No death are anticipated, it was added.

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the state bureau of health conservation, said approximately 5,000 people have been inoculated in Mifflin county and an unknown number in Lancaster county, the two counties from which the malady has been reported.

There are 39 known cases, he asserted, all linked to an Ohio resident who visited Pennsylvania before Christmas. Thirty-one cases have been reported from the Kishacoquillas valley in Mifflin county, three from Lancaster and five from other Lancaster communities.

People were lined up in front of physicians' offices in Belleville, Amish community in the Kischacoquillas valley where the Ohio resident attended a wedding, and from 200 to 300 people were being inoculated there daily, said Campbell. The entire valley with its 2,500 residents has been quarantined.

The state health director identified the Ohio carrier as a Mrs. Andrew Weaver, who lived on a farm. He understood, he asserted, that she is now under quarantine at her home, along with three other members of her party, including her husband, who became ill after they returned to Ohio. The party visited five states.

When money talks after the war, it will say: "Don't deport the harmless little Japs: we need skilled labor on our truck farms."

GRAND-SCALE RED OFFENSIVE IS UNDER WAY

the joint campaign to isolate Nazi troops in the Stalingrad area and in the Caucasus.

(It was reliably estimated in London that 50 to 60 divisions comprising 500,000 to 600,000 German troops are threatened by the Red army drive westward toward the sea of Azov. Military circles said it was believed the Germans already have withdrawn a considerable number of troops from the area.)

(The British radio, according to CBS, said today that the Russians have cut the railroad between Millerovo and Kamenskaya.)

The high command announced at noon that its offensive south of Stalingrad resulted in recapture of several inhabited localities. In a fierce battle on one sector, it was said, 1,800 Germans were killed.

Advances Scored

Advances were scored in the southwest march through the Middle Don despite furious Nazi counter-attacks which were repulsed by the Russians.

"The Germans concentrated large infantry forces on one sector but a Soviet counter-blow flung the enemy back to his initial positions," the communique said.

"On another sector our troops overcame enemy resistance and forged ahead."

The communique stated that fighting was in progress on the approaches to a large inhabited locality which it failed to name.

Stern Nazi resistance was overcome in the northern factory area of Stalingrad and 82 blockhouses and dugouts were captured, the high command said. Previously the recapture of a number of shops and buildings was announced.

Northwest of the industrial city the Russians gained a strategically important height and the Germans suffered heavy losses when they strove in vain to retake the position.

Offensive engagements raged unabated on the central front west of Moscow. Several more inhabited localities were occupied in the Velikie Luki area. One important Nazi defense position was captured after heavy battling.

Germans Withdrawing

The army newspaper Red Star said that fierce street fighting took place inside Kotelnikov before its capture. The Germans are reported to be hastily withdrawing to the south and southwest, trying to break off contact, but the Russians are said to be ceaselessly pursuing them, liberating more villages every hour.

Russian tanks supported by infantry pursued the Germans from Kotelnikov in the direction of Zimovniki for a distance of 42 miles down the Stalingrad-Caucasus railroad, giving the fleeing Nazis no respite, the Red Star declared.

(A Reuter's dispatch from Moscow said that Soviet troops were fighting in the eastern region of the district of Voroshilovgrad, less than 100 miles from Rostov at the mouth of the Don. Russian forces were said to have closed in on the vital railway junction of Millerovo and are fighting within two miles of the town on both its eastern and western approaches.)

(An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow said that the red army army had surrounded the city and railway station of Kotelnikov from three sides and then broke into the German positions, precipitating the fiercest street fighting, with the Nazis refusing to quit until they were routed by fire and bayonet.)

northwest of American held Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal and the cargo ships were believed concentrated there in an effort to move up supplies to apparently starving Japanese forces on Guadalcanal.

The American planes, carrying out relentless attacks, bombed and strafed two of the Jap cargo vessels until they were sunk. The sinkings brought to 148 the number of Jap ships that have been lost in the battle of the Solomons.

The latest casualties inflicted on the weary Jap troops on Guadalcanal brought to more than 7500 the number of soldiers the Japanese have lost since American task forces stormed the island on Aug. 7.

Dutch Admiral Sees Long Battle Ahead

Helfrich Says Regaining Dutch East Indies "Bitter Struggle" With Japs

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. — Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich of the Dutch navy declared on Tuesday after conferring with President Roosevelt at the White House that regaining the Dutch East Indies from the Japanese would be a "long, bitter struggle."

Helfrich said that he and the President had discussed the general picture on the outlook of the war, especially the Far East, and found it to be "encouraging."

Helfrich commanded the allied fleets during the battle of the Java Sea in February and March of 1942. He has since been relieved of that command.

Tremendous amounts of war material will be needed to retake the Dutch East Indies, he said. As to time, he observed:

"I'd like to be optimistic, but in this case I don't think I can be. As far as I know the Japanese, they will fight to the end."

Helfrich, who met President Roosevelt for the first time on Tuesday, declared that he and the chief executive had talked of the future of the war and had made no allusions to past military or naval operation.

Wright Field Gets Powerful Testers

New Machinery Can Test Aircraft Engines Of 8,000 Horsepower, Says Army

(International News Service)

DAYTON, O., Dec. 30 Army officers in charge of Wright Field, near Dayton, revealed on Monday that machinery has been installed in the aircraft power plant laboratory for testing aircraft engines of 8,000 horsepower, which is nearly four times as powerful as the best engines now in use.

Preparations for testing engines of such unheard-of power is in line with the established policy at Wright Field of anticipating future developments in aviation by several years.

Brig. Gen. Franklin O. Carroll, in command of the experimental engineering division at Wright Field, declared that 8,000 horsepower engines were practically certain to be developed.

"Such engines," he said, "probably will come along about 10 years from now."

JAP SUPPLY LINES STEADILY BOMBED NEAR GUADALCANAL

and other south Pacific bases have relentlessly bombed the Japs on both Guadalcanal, New Georgia Island and Rabaul.

Commander Dexter said that United Nations forces through their advances on New Guinea now were astride Japanese supply lines to Guadalcanal. Supplies sent to the Japs there are generally from the big Jap base at Rabaul, which has been repeatedly bombed by U. S. pilots. The situation of the Japanese on Guadalcanal is so desperate that the Nipponese are forced to drop supplies to their troops there by parachute.

"The Japanese situation is deteriorating rapidly," the commander said.

Dexter expressed belief, however that the Japs still maintain a fighting line on Guadalcanal where the main portion of their troops are concentrated. However, U. S. Marine patrols have isolated other Jap troops on the 100-mile long island and driven survivors from such detachments into the hills where they are forced to live off the land or face starvation.

Labor Estimate Is Boosted For 1943

McNutt's Announcement Gives No Specific Reasons For Large Increase

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Paul V. McNutt, war manpower chief, said on Tuesday that estimates on the nation's total labor force by the end of 1943 have been revised upward to 65,400,000, an increase of nearly 3,000,000 over previous figures.

At a press conference, McNutt declined, however, to account specifically for the increase or indicate whether it meant a boost in the contemplated size of the armed forces.

The increase resulted, he said, after "we took a look at the job we have ahead of us in agriculture, war industry, lend-lease, the armed services, and everything else."

BUSTS OF THE YEAR

WHEN the World Series has become ancient history, when the bowl games have been played, when only basketball and hockey are left to break gate receipts and heads, the sports writers turn to the ballot box for news.

There are polls on the hero of the year on the diamond and gridiron, conducted with or without a 4 per cent margin of error. There are all-America terms in prodigious array, most of the selectors noting with unerring logic that Guadalcanal, the Savo Islands and North Africa have produced a few all-Americas of their own.

And when the last line has been wrung from these sources, the writers tap another rich vein of conjecture and copy by compiling a list of the conspicuous disappointments of the sporting year.

In 1942 the New York Yankees won this dubious distinction for failing to win the World Series. For Messrs. McCarthy, Gordon and DiMaggio it is recognition they could have waived to, say the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were runnersup. But in this era of change and crisis, of shortages and sudden cold snaps all disappointment is relative.

As one sports writer noted, that celebrated German marathoner, Erwin Rommel, might be Germany's No. 1 disappointment. In Japan it might be the hon. admiral and general who made the mistake of meeting up with a couple of fellows known well and favorably hereabouts as MacArthur and Halsey.

And, speaking of No. 1 disappointments, who in all Italy could possibly compete with Benito as the "bust" of the year.

NO RIGHT TO STRIKE

Two presidents, as far apart politically and philosophically as Calvin Coolidge and Franklin Roosevelt, have denied the right of government employes to strike.

Mayor La Guardia of New York, co-author of the Federal ban on injunctions against strikes, challenges the right of the War Labor Board to assume jurisdiction over the wages, hours and working conditions of 3,772,000 state, county and city employes.

It would seem difficult, then, to believe that opposition to the WLB's intervention in such matters stems from reactionary sources.

The board is to be commended on its recognition of the realities, and its decision that it does not possess jurisdiction over the labor relations of municipalities.

CORNBELT SUBMARINE ON ITS WAY

Construction of a 300-foot fleet type submarine at Manitowoc, Wisconsin, gave several thousand Great Lakes boatbuilders, ex-farmers and lumberjacks a chance to boost the strength of the Navy. More undersea boats from the same district will shortly follow this one—the Peto—into service against our enemies.

The task of rafting the big vessel down the shallow reaches of the Mississippi to New Orleans is a big one, involving many complications, but the Navy is confident the ship will reach the Louisiana port promptly for final outfitting before she joins the fleet.

The value of the Peto, and more submarines to come, cannot be overestimated. From December 7, 1941 to date United States submarines have sunk 153 out of 455 Axis vessels destroyed by our forces. The new "Corn Belt submarine" now traversing the Father of Waters is one of a huge flotilla under construction throughout the country. They will enormously increase American naval power in both the Atlantic and the Pacific during the year just ahead.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE

Absenteeism in war production plants is a difficult problem. Most manufacturers are trying to solve it by direct appeals to their workers. The employe magazine of a Philadelphia firm, E. F. Houghton & Co., says that "absenteeism, to give it a long name, is actually a form of slackerism . . . Let's stay on the job—all the time."

Appeals of this sort may be sufficient for the man who is tempted to take an extra day off after a week of hard work at high wages. But a brave man in Chicago, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, says the worst offenders are women, especially those who have only lately gone to work in war factories. He declares that too many of them are likely to take time off without notice to "do their shopping, attend weddings or parties, or to get their hair done."

A man might admit that a day's fishing is not important when there is urgent war work to be done. But few normal women would admit that shopping is unimportant. In the feminine scale of relative values weddings are enormously important. The need to have her hair done similarly dislocates a woman's sense of proportion.

There is no apparent cure for this condition. Compulsion is out of the question. If any solution is to be found, the women will find it. They may suddenly decide, for instance, that absenteeism isn't smart or stylish, and that will finish it.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

COVER THE GLOBE

No citizenry in the history of the world can compare with that of the United States in having personal knowledge of the earth and the inhabitants thereof.

The Spaniards in their exploring days got around quite a bit. The English in the busiest days of their colonial and dominion devolpment had contact with a great many climes. But neither came within sight of the record in foreign visits now being hung up by young and observant Americans, who miss little in their travels as their letters home attest.

According to Hanson Baldwin of the New York Times United States armed forces are stationed or are operating at sixty-five points. A partial list includes:

Northern Ireland and England, French Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Egypt, Freetown, Liberia, Gold Coast, Nigeria, Gabon, French Equatorial Africa, Belgian Congo, Shad, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Eritrea.

Also Palestine, Syria, Iraq, Iran, India, China, Australia and the Pacific Islands, New Guinea, Solomons, New Hebrides, New Caledonia, New Zealand, Fiji, Samoa, Canton, the Hawaiians, Palmyra, Midway, Galapagos, Santa Elena.

Also Ecuador, Guatemala, Nicaragua, the Canal Zone, Venezuela, British Guiana, Surinam, Brazil.

Also Canada, Newfoundland, Labrador, Alaska, the Aleutians, Curacao, Trinidad, Saint Lucia, Antigua, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, Haiti, Jamaica, Cuba, Bahamas, Greenland and Iceland.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BABY TALKS IN FIRST CRY

THE BABY IS born with the physical equipment for talking and begins to use the equipment right away in his first cry. From then on there is a continuous and gradual development of his speech. The time comes when he utters words, later, phrases; and still later, sentences similar to the conventional language of his parents. Even during his first days we might observe some new sound development in his grunts or cries.

The most noticeable, and perhaps the biggest gain toward his talking comes when he, after a few months, begins responding to persons, usually to his mother. He first smiles in response to her dancing eyes and tender tones. This pleases her and she keeps on trying to get him to smile.

Baby Starts Cooing

There comes another happy day for the mother, several weeks later, when the baby makes a very lovely sound different from any he had ever made before. We call it cooing. At first the sound may occur just once, but later, in a series. Notice then how hard this infant tries to make the sound, moving his head and pursing his lips. Sometimes the sounds just don't come at all. At other times they seem to come easily. If a very loud one occurs the youngster may appear startled at what happened, for he hears it and probably feels the movement of his organs of speech.

Gradual Development

Still later, the infant, while all alone, may coo for relatively long periods at a stretch. Apparently he is very comfortable and happy then. He probably would coo eventually, even if his mother had not tried so often to get him to coo, yet her efforts undoubtedly hastened the development. I recorded elaborate notes on the early speech development of my own childrn and, last summer, I was able to observe daily my granddaughter during her third and fourth months.

Watch your baby's growth toward speech before he is six months old. Continue to do so till he really begins to talk. You will gain much pleasure and insight from your observations. Then the little tyke will prove the more precious to you and you will conclude that your affectionate and tender tones as he watches your dancing eyes will aid him in his speech development. That is a good time to begin softly singing lullabies to him. Be sure to keep your voice subdued. Let me warn you also not to excite him unduly nor keep him awake when he should be quiet or asleep.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. I find that my boy beginning the second grade cannot read a single word but can rattle off a whole story word for word in a way that made his teacher last year think he was reading.

A. Calmly sit down with him and have him say one of the stories he "reads" from memory. Ask him to go slowly as you run your finger beneath each word or phrase so he may gradually connect the word or phrase with the printed symbols. Make a scrap book with him, cutting pictures from old magazines and pasting them in this scrapbook, you printing appropriate words, phrases or sentences under each picture. Write me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it and ask for "Home Helps for Poor Readers," Part I.

Q. My small daughter plays almost exclusively with three girls seven, nine and eleven.

A. Better these playmates, perhaps, than none at all. But these older girls probably treat her as a kind of toy, babying her and letting her have her way. She needs playmates her age most of the time.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
I. N. S. Staff Writer

Effective midnight Thursday, all months bearing the serial number 1942 will be cancelled.

The first of a new series of months will be issued at 12:01 and consumers will receive not more than 12.

A spokesman for the rationing authorities says: "Thirty days hath September, April, June and November. This is 100 per cent of the number available during the calendar years of 1935-37 and should entail no hardship.

"All the rest have 31 except February which has not been frozen."

The new allotment will consist of 365 days, each containing 24 plastic hours. Issuance of golden hours has been suspended for the duration.

There is no restriction on how the hours may be used and no penalties for wasting them—but there should be.

If a sufficient number of persons is interested in contributing a sufficient number of thier quota of hours to winning the war in 1943 it can be won in 1943.

Thought for the day: Use coupon No. 1 on January 1.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:43. Sun rises tomorrow 8:22.

On a highway out west traffic signs were regularly knocked down. A watch was put on for careless motorists but the culprits turned out to be horses and cattle which used them for hitching posts.

The American flag will be a good decoration for any home New Years Day.

MUST BE THE ALTITUDE

"Upper or lower berth," inquired would-be traveler, "what's the difference?"

"Well," replied the ticket agent, "the difference is two dollars. But that is not all. The lower is higher than the upper one. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower, you have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. Most people don't like the upper, although its lower on account of being higher. When you occupy an upper you go up to bed and get down to get up."

One of the special leaders of our neighborhood went out to the store the other day determined to do her bit for the war effort not buying any meat, so she asked the man at the counter to sell her some fish. He suggested the halibut.

"But I don't like the looks of that halibut," she complained.

"Well, madame," suggested the helpful employe, "if that's the case and your're going to buy for looks, why don't you take some goldfish?"

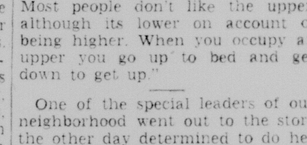
ANGEL

Brown: "My wife is an angel!"
Smith: "Really, how is that?"
Brown: "She's always up in the air, always harping on something, and never has anything to wear."

"Are the irons hot?"
"As hot as I can get them."
"Is the oil boiling?"
"Yes, Master."
"Is the victim securely fastened in the chair?"
"Yes, Master. She cannot move."
"O. K. then. Give her the $2 permanent."

If some birds did not talk until they had something to talk about they would hardly ever say a word.

Some birds who got out of jail thought the holidays were great.



Simile for today: As sophisticated as daughter feels when she learns to use the word "suave."

IT SAVED HER

Millionaire Jones was recalling the struggle of his youth. "I was living in California, and my parents in New York, and I had just managed to save enough money to buy myself a bicycle when my father wrote that my mother was ill. I jumped on my bicycle and rode across the continent, only to be told that California air was all that would save my mother. So I dragged the bike in beside the bed, let the air out of the tires, and she lived to the good old age of 95."

The last week in the year seems to go the fastest. Too much excitement.

A lot of birds use both their noses and ears for news.

It's not a bad idea to make drivers of cars responsible for any injuries passengers received while riding with them. That is some drivers.

'He thinks he is one of the big guns of industry, and he has been fired seven times."

A prospective bridegroom has learned that the first essential in feathering a nest is a little down.

We can do better in the coming year if we just remember the important things we learned during this year. Give the coming year some serious thought.

During the past year many improvements have been made in a lot of things. Some birds even got better at lying.

SMART FELLOW

In a moment of weakness, Sandy's son had loaned a friend five hundred dollars without benefit of written receipt. In desperation, he consulted his father.

"That's easy, me lad," consoled the father. "Write him and say you need the one thousand dollars instantly."

"You mean the five hundred dollars," interposed Sandy, Jr.

"That I do not. You say one thousand dollars, and he will write back that he only owes you five hundred. Then you will have it in writing."

Jane—Whenever I get down in the dumps I buy myself a new hat." Sally: "So that's where you get them?"

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD PROFILE

"I worry constantly about my nose which is retrousse—'saucy' my mother says—in comparison with my sister's. Mother says she has a 'cameo profile.' Her mouth is small while mine is very generous and pouty. I will be eighteen next month."—Jane.

This letter just in from a girl in the suburbs I have answered thus: I earnestly believe that a survey of men's preferences would show that many more of them would prefer retrousse noses at a saucy angle and full pouty lips to cameo profiles. My dear girl, after you have seen more of life you will have observed that marriage comes more often and more successfully to your girl chums and friends who are just fairly good-looking than to those who are glamour girls. There was never a truer saying than that 'beauty is in the eyes of the gazer.' I can call the roll of my school chums and mark practically all of the homely and mediocre ones happily married while a much greater proportion of the beauties have found it hard to make a go of matrimony. So, Jane with her irregular features and horn-rimmed spectacles has just as much chance of holding her husband as her glamorous sister who won the crown at one of the beauty pageants.

Question: I am a secretary in an office. Frequently I have met my employer's wife who calls at the office. Do you think I should buy them Christmas gifts?—P. S.

Answer: By all means, buy no gifts for them, but do send them a joint Christmas card, addressed to them at their home.

Tomorrow—Jealous Wife

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed 3-cent stamped envelope.

THE BISHOP'S CHOICE

A celebrated Angelican divine, the late Bishop of Rochester, who had been ailing for some time, decided to consult Sir Frederick Treves, the noted surgeon. After a careful examination Sir Frederick pronounced his verdict, and added, "Your lordship must go to Algiers or some winter resort on the Riviera."

"Impossible," replied the Bishop. "I have too much work to get through."

"Well," said the doctor, "you must make your choice. It is either Algiers or heaven."

"Dear me," exclaimed the Bishop, with a sigh; "then I suppose it must be Algiers."

A new pill has been invented that will keep people stimulated and alert for at least 18 hours a day. Keeping some alert eight hours a day will be a good thing.

A great many noted men in this country got their first start by selling newspapers. They were smart enough not to run or buy newspapers.

No man has to be a politician. He has a duty however, to be interested in those who are elected to serve the people.

At the senior prom. She—"I simply adore that funny step. Where did you learn it?" He—"Funny step? I'm losing my garter."

JUST LIKE THE PLUMBER

The colored preacher had just finished his sermon about free salvation and asked a Brother to take up the collection. At this, a member of the congregation rose and protested: "Pahson, Al thought you said salvation was free—free as the water we-uns drink."

"Salvation is free, Brother," replied the parson. "It's free and water is free, but when we pipes it to you—you have to pay for the piping."

It happened at an Air Raid Precautions rehearsal.

"Excuse me,madam," said the young instructor, "but you are wearing your gas-mask wrongly."

"As a matter of fact, young man," replied the woman, acidly, "I haven't got a gas-mask on!"

Standing room never was in such great demand as it is now.

"I once had a beard like yours, but when I realized how it made me look, I cut it off." "Well, my face once looked like yours and when I realized I couldn't cut it off I grew a beard to cover it."

Middle age is when it kills you to lose the sleep you bragged about not getting at twenty.

MAKING SURE

A guest of a small Southern hotel was awakened early one morning by a knock on his door.

"What is it?" he called drowsily, without getting up.

"A telegram boss," responded a bellboy's voice.

"Well, you can shove it under the door, can't you, without waking me up so early?"

"No, suh," the bell hop answered, "it's on a tray."

Jones—"I've heard your wife is a finished singer." Smith—"Well, not yet. But the neighbors almost got her last night."

When a local mother asked her little daughter what happens to little girls when they tell lies, the little girl says, "Yes, they grow up and tell their little girls they'll have curley hair if they eat their spinach."

Maybe "Horseberger" will not be a new name for a popular thing some of these days.

Even prisoners in jail are buying bonds. They want their country to still be in good shape when they get out.

What's What At A Glance

Presidential Swipe Viewed As Bouquet
Newspaperman May Receive Advancement
President And Wife Have Case Of Nerves

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—For a would-be kick in the pants to land as a fine compliment may seem paradoxical. Nevertheless, President Roosevelt's recent swipe in the direction of the seat of John O'Donnell's journalistic trousers generally is regarded by John's professional colleagues in the Washington newspaper corps as having been highly flattering. It's the consensus of opinion at the National Press club that it ought to win the lad a substantial pay boost.

The story's been copiously broadcast to capital scribes, but I doubt that the miscellaneous public senses the full beauty of it. A reporter or editor is the chap to analyze it fully understandingly.

It's necessary to repeat a bit to rub in the idea thoroughly.

John O'Donnell's chief Washington correspondent of a national news service.

For a long time he's regularly attended what are known as White House press conferences. He's been prominent in the bunch, too. From the president on down, all hands know him.

One of his associates for years has been another of the same gang, George Durno.

George, being eligible now, has been mustered into the military service and at present is an army captain in the Australian area.

What Started It

John received a letter from him as a friend of a generation's standing. He also got a kind of a twin letter from Jack Turkott, another American newspaperman in the same outfit. They were josh letters. No censor interfered with 'em. There was no reason for any censor to do so.

They struck John O'Donnell as good copy and he played extracts from 'em accordingly.

Somehow, upon their appearance in print, the frivolity of 'em angered F. D. R.

As his notion of a reward, he sent a German iron cross to Brer O'Donnell. He didn't mean it as a reward, either. The iron cross for years has been recognized as the highest recognition of German valor on the battlefield.

That cross unmistakably was intended as an expression of the White House judgment that John was plugging for the Germans.

How F. D. R. got the gewgaw isn't explained, but it's immaterial considering how long and intimately he's been associated with internationalism. He doubtless has oodles of such tags available.

John accepted his gift very gracefully, merely saying that he'd no notion that his yarn would be misinterpreted.

The point is that so jovial a little spiel's importance should be so overly dealt with by as big a functionary as the United States president. If that isn't a compliment I'm no judge of 'em.

One-Way Humor

What the executive mansion chronically lacks currently is a sense of humor. It plays horse persistently with the newspaper crew, but it wants no reciprocation.

Mrs. Roosevelt is as sensitive as the president.

Her girl callers have to be as careful as the boss's.

It runs all through bureaucratic politics.

A censorship isn't so bad that's choked off in advance, but this stuff oozes out and then is called to time after it's appeared in print.

Then it's too late to do anything about it.

It'll be worse, too. The censorship will be getting tighter.

There were several suspended mail delivery days. You didn't know what you were delivering or what was due to you that you weren't receiving.

You can't tell just how much of it's censorial and how much it's due to impaired postal service bureaucracy gone cuckoo. It's ceased to mean anything.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Vice President Henry A. Wallace, proposing a "worldwide new democracy" following the war: "Its aims would be to preserve the liberty, equality, security and unity of the United Nations. . . ."

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cordell Hull: "The selection of General Giraud to his new post (French high commissioner in North Africa) is a most fortunate choice and one that will, I am sure, receive the enthusiastic commendation of all."

LONDON — General Charles De Gaulle: "A large temporary power grouping all French forces inside and outside the country and in all French territories . . . is necessary to national independence and unity until such time as the nation itself is able to express its sovereign wishes."

CHICAGO — Walter M. Jeffers, rubber administrator: "There are about a million tons of rubber in the tires of our automobiles. This is enough, if properly taken care of, to bridge the gap between the present critical condition and the time when synthetic production will be sufficient to take care of the slack."

Democracy in action: There is a growing lumber shortage; 32,000 little mills are idle because the government won't deal with them.

Let them beware. The have-not races fight most fiercely, and now we are that kind.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Mrs. Ruby Sargent of East Weymouth, Mass., and her daughter, Mrs. Doris Ford have just left the hospital.

Both of them gave birth to babies the same day. Both of them occupied ajoining beds and both babies ajoining cribs in the nursery.

Now they are home, both with the same interests in life, both young mothers, both understanding each other's problems, both pals.

And there, ladies and gentlemen, is the solution of a problem that bothers so many people nowadays.

Children aren't like they used to be, say the parents, they have grown away from us.

Parents are hopeless, say the children, they don't understand us at all!

Of course we can't all be like Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. Ford.

But we can all try to be a little closer to our children (or parents), to understand each other better, to realize that each human being has a mind of his own and has to live his own life.

It's a most peculiar thing that people so completely forget their own youth and all the difficulties youth had to face. Of all the strangers in the world none is so strange to you as YOU twenty or thirty years ago.

Do you remember your "misdeeds?" Do you recollect how you worried your own parents, how you used to think them fogies and scolds and unreasonable and squeamish?

And how about you kids? You don't know, of course, because you can't look into the future.

But you may be sure that when you have children of your own you'll worry just as much about them as your parents worry about you now.

Why not forget that you are parents or sons or daughters?

Why not just laugh together, play together, be considerate of each other and have one heck of a good time together.

Yesterday's daughter is tomorrow's mother.

So what's the difference?

The World and the Mud Puddles

DOCTORS ALSO SERVE

Families or parents who have men in military service have something to be thankful for that they probably do not fully appreciate as yet. Our military forces enjoy the most technically perfect, the most humane medical care ever conceived. The best men from the ranks of medicine are in uniform.

An incident that happened recently aboard a battleship "somewhere in the Pacific" may not prove unusual. An enlisted man was abruptly stricken with acute appendicitis. After a successful emergency operation in the ship's surgery, he found himself attended by his family Doctor from his home town. The feeling of confidence and reassurance that flowed into the heart of the patient can well be imagined! Such incidents by repetition will become one of the biggest morale boosters both on the home front and the military front.

The Doctor is a vital connecting link between the service men and the country for which they fight. And he takes far more into the Army with him than the skills of his profession. He takes with him the cream of American character instilled in him through years of study in our cultural and medical institutions. He is a living symbol to the men at the front of the principles of integrity and decency that we are fighting to save.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

RETURN TO DUTY

Time was, in happier days than these,
I thought I'd earned a life of ease
I boasted, like all other bores,
That I was done with household chores.
But winter's here, and back I go
Once more to shoveling the snow.

Before the war, in gayer times,
When Rockefeller passed out dimes
And millionaires were thick as fleas,
I toyed with many a new disease
And every ailment, not too bad,
I made myself believe I had.

Too weary and too proud I grew
Man's ordinary tasks to do.
The dishes I refused to dry;
Cut grass at eventide? Not I.
I made the ultimatum flat
That I was done with work like that.

But now beside the sink I stand
To lend once more a helping hand,
I'm done with all my fancied ills,
For work's a better cure than pills.
Once more, as forty years ago,
I'm back to shoveling off the snow.

Sane optimism is the belief that we have the character to sacrifice, suffer and fight until, in two or five or ten years, our enemies are crushed.

French Again Warned Of Invasion Dangers

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Residents of France were warned again today for the first time in months by the British radio to move away from possible areas of invasion and from centers producing war materials for the Nazis.

The warning given by the British Broadcasting Company was directed principally to those residing in the southern part of France recently occupied when Hitler scrapped the Treaty of Compiegne and overran all the country following the Allied invasion of North Africa.

"French people living near railway centers, factories, workshops engaged in war production, coastal zones, repair shops and other vulnerable points will find it to their advantage to move elsewhere," the announcer said.

"Those who are obliged to remain must stay outside any conflict until told otherwise by the British or American radio."

The latter statement referred to long-standing promises to French patriots wishing to assist Allied invasion forces that they would be given sufficient notice when their help was desired. They have been asked not to take part in any action without receipt of notice because of the danger of reprisals by the Nazis.

MILLBURN

SCHOOL PROGRAM

Pupils of Mt. Union school, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Mary Rice, presented a Christmas program of music, playlets and recitations to an audience of parents and friends at the school on December 23. A gift exchange was the closing feature of the afternoon with Santa Claus acting as master of ceremonies. A prettily decorated tree gave a holiday air to the room.

MILLBURN GRANGE

The Christmas program of Millburn Grange was a carol program. Descriptions of the origin of the carols preceded the singing by the grange. A Christmas poem, read by Mrs. Mildred Ramsey, the reading of the Christmas story from the gospel of St. Luke by Miss Clara Metzgar, playing of the carols as trombone solos by George Lukacs and a closing poem by the lecturer made up the program.

Governor James Foresees Surplus In State Treasury

Will End Term With State Surplus For First Time In Decade, He Says

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—Gov. Arthur H. James predicted today that his administration will end with a surplus in the state treasury, the first such occurence in more than a decade. The last outgoing governor to leave a favorable balance was John S. Fisher in 1931.

Governor James, who will be succeeded on January 19 by Governor-elect Edward Martin, said that economies effected by his administration during the past four years would make it possible for the state to end the current biennium next May 31 without a deficit.

Although the chief executive would hazard no guess, Secretary of Banking John C. Bell, lieutenant governor-elect, recently told the Republican state executive committee that the anticipated surplus would approximate $70,000,000.

Governor James said that not every state agency would end the two-year fiscal period in the black but added that the departmental deficits would be absorbed.

Despite Governor James' prediction, it appeared uncertain yet whether the incoming administration would recommend to the General Assembly a reduction of taxes. According to Bell, the impact of the war has resulted in a financial loss to the state which may reach as much as $58,000,000 by the end of the first Martin administration biennium in 1943. Bell saw little possibility of taxes being reduced at the 1943 session of the legislature.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

The health battle is being fought on several fronts.

The fighting men must have adequate and proper medical care.

There must be provided 6½ doctors for every 1,000 troops.

Consider the doctors for an army of 7,500,000 men!

This brings up the home front in the health battle.

There must be increased and intensified industrial health activity.

There are comparatively few well trained industrial physicians.

Plant operators must support industrial health programs.

Employees must watch their welfare off the job as well as on it.

In this work, county and state medical societies are leaders.

Postgraduate industrial health courses are being given physicians.

Doctors on the home front are trying to keep the war worker well.

Condition Of Surfacing On Streets Gives Trouble

Local business establishments and residents along streets affected are at their wits ends as to what to do about a situation which developed this week when heavy road oil, which was applied to Croton avenue, and Jefferson street, in particular, in November, started to disintegrate and adhered to most everything it came in contact with.

Automobiles driving along the streets affected acquire a coating a half an inch thick, to all appearances like a re-cap, which begins gradually wearing off as the car leaves the affected area. The stuff is thus carried a considerable distance away and is carried into people's houses and into business buildings where it is deposited on the floors. When it gets into a carpet, it is almost impossible to get it out, and stores with tile or composition floors must use kerosene oil to dissolve the mixture.

According to city street department officials, the streets had an oil dressing applied in November after the weather had turned cold. Then after the recent thaw, it appears that the water got underneath it and forced the oily tar to the surface, where it began collecting on everything in "gooey" masses.

Reported To State

The matter was reported to the state highway department by Street Commissioner James Gibson and City Engineer John Z. Street, who blame the fact that the heavy road oil was applied during cold weather for the mess.

Mr. Gibson stated that the condition first developed about noon Monday, and that Highway Superintendent E. O. Reed was notified immediately. He in turn communicated with the district office in Pittsburgh, who stated that there was nothing could be done to relieve the condition and that the best course would be to let it wear off. If it got too bad, it was ordered to have the street closed, which was done for a time Monday evening.

According to Councilman Gibson, the heavy road oil was applied to the streets while there was frost in the ground underneath, which prevented the oil from adhering to the surface and that after the recent hard freeze it just let go.

Says City Powerless

Both North Jefferson street and Croton avenue are under the jurisdiction of the state highway department and there is nothing the city can do about repairs to these streets, says Mr. Gibson. He is hopeful that the present laws can be changed so that various municipalities in the state can take care of repairs as needed, by city employes working under the city engineers who know local conditions and needs, and who would be able to make repairs when conditions are the most favorable. There is no doubt, he stated, that had the top dressing been applied to the streets affected during warmer weather the oil would have adhered to the surface underneath and the present condition would not have resulted. There is a possibility, too, that proper materials were not used, he said.

Dash Hopes For Any Relaxation In Gas Rations

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Any hopes which east coast motorists may have held for relaxation of the recent cuts in their gasoline rations were dashed today by increasing military and lend-lease demands for petroleum.

Economic Czar James F. Byrnes, after a conference with top railroad executives, said that he saw no hope of being able to boost the amount of gasoline and fuel now being rationed to civilians from Maine to Florida.

A step toward alleviating the shortage was taken, meanwhile, by the office of defense transportation which ordered nearly one-half of the nation's 143,000 tank cars frozen in petroleum service for the Atlantic shortage areas.

Now 45,000 Tires In Storage Here

'Status Quo' Prevails In Movement Plans; Pile Grows Higher

Disposition of the 44,500 tires—excess tires of district motorists—now piled up in three storage depots here remained unknown to anybody here today.

It was generally believed that federal authorities have not as yet determined a final program for directing the turn-ins into channels helpful to the war effort.

No tires have been moved out of the depots here, but a great many more are being added daily.

Railway Express officials said the idle tires are still coming in. They urged drivers to telephone the express office if they want tires collected.

Authorities in Washington are responsible for movement from the local depots, and the when or where of that movement remained unknown locally.

County Fines And Costs Total $30,000 During Year District Attorney Reveals

Crime may not pay the criminal but it certainly doesn't do badly by the County of Lawrence. In a compilation of the years' work today, District Attorney C. Leroy Donaldson shows that the fines and costs received from criminals in the year of 1942 will be about $30,000.

In his resume for the year the district attorney shows the number and kind of cases handled by his office and the moneys received from the various classifications.

His statement of compilation follows:

Record Of Year

"A total of 431 cases received the attention of the District Attorney's office in 1942. Only 7 cases, aside from those of the current March 1943 term, remain for trial or hearing before the Court to determine whether the defendants be innocent or guilty of the offenses charged, and these for the most part involve persons absent from the jurisdiction by reason of service with the Armed Forces of the United States. There are 8 remaining cases listed for sentence wherein the defendants have pleaded guilty or been convicted after jury trial.

The docket records maintained by the office of the District Attorney show that approximately one-fourth, or slightly over 100, cases involved felonies. Offenses against personal property supply a large number of felony cases; for example, such crimes as burglary, larceny and receiving stolen goods totaled 53 cases. On the other hand, only 6 cases of robbery reached the Courts in 1942. Forgery and cheating by fraudulent pretenses has been on the increase and accounted for 27 felony cases. Sex offenses, some of which were felonies and others misdemeanors, consisting of rape, indecent assault, adultery, and fornication and bastardy totaled 38 in 1942.

Misdemeanors against the public peace, such as disorderly conduct, surety of the peace, and assault and battery, were frequent and supplied the District Attorney with 55 cases.

Drunken Driving

The offense of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor continues to be an outstanding misdemeanor. A total of 50 cases of so-called "drunken driving" received the attention of the Court in 1942. While two persons charged with this offense were discharged by the Grand Jury, all remaining defendants either pleaded guilty or were convicted after a jury trial.

Domestic relations cases totaled 110. These included desertion and non-support of wives and children and also cases involving failure to support children born out of lawful wedlock.

Some of the other cases prosecuted in 1942 by the District Attorney's Office are as follows:: violations of the lottery laws, 37; violations of the liquor laws, 19; violations of the Election Code, 3; violations of the Uniform Firearms Act, 5; and miscellaneous violations of the Motor Vehicle Code, 37.

There has been a record collection of fines, costs and forfeitures from criminal prosecutions in 1942. The total for the year should reach $30,000, since approximately $28,000 already has been collected, with a number of cases awaiting final disposition and with extensions for payment granted in other cases. Prosecutions for violation of the lottery laws, commonly known as "numbers" cases, resulting in an average collection of $347.66 each, contributed the sum of $12,515.80 to the county funds in 1942. In fact the collection of fines, costs and forfeitures from the lottery prosecutions alone have been more than sufficient to defray the entire operating expense of the district attorney's office for the year.

Liquor Violations

Prosecutions for violation of the liquor laws resulted in the collection of $4,627.45 to date. Several of these defendants have been granted a few weeks within which to pay and the final total for liquor violations should reach $5,000 for the year.

The records show that about eighty per cent of those prosecuted for operating a motor vehicle while intoxictaed pay their fines and costs; the remainder elect to serve a jail sentence. The sum of $4,234.40 has been collected this year on account of these cases.

A substantial amount of confiscated money also has been paid into the county treasury this year. The total of this to date is more than $1,000.00. Finally, more than 425 illegal gambling devices, including slot machines, money boards and so on, of an estimated value of more than $5,000, were seized, confiscated and destroyed by order of Court, during the past year."

Grove City Mail Records Smashed

(International News Service)

GROVE CITY, Dec. 30. — All Christmas mailing records were shattered at the local office, Postmaster Olive McCoy reports.

In the 10-day period preceding Christmas Day, receipts were $1,500 more than for the same figure last year, which was a record. In the same period, the office received 1,326 sacks of parcel post and 570 sacks of outside parcels, constituting a new high mark, and cancelled 191,710 letters. Stamps sales in the period totaled 219,500, in denominations from 1½ cents to 6 cents.

Twenty extra people were employed, with one regular out because of illness. Each day's work was completed before the force quit, and packages were also delivered on Christmas Day.

Wisconsin Governor Declared By Court

(International News Service)

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 30.—Walter Goodland, 80, Republican lieutenant governor elect, was declared governor of Wisconsin in a unanimous opinion handed down by the state supreme court Tuesday.

He will succeed Orland S. Loomis, late governor-elect, who died December 7, a month before he was to take office.

The decision terminated one of the most confusing legal questions in Wisconsin history.

Fifteen Pass Operator's Test

Pennsylvania Motor police Tuesday in Sampson street examined 20 applicants for a motor vehicle operator's permit and 15 passed. Examinations will be held again next Tuesday.

The small number of applicants no doubt was caused by the combination of youths going to the army, poor tires, rationing of gas and also weather conditions which were not good for driving tests yesterday.

The names of the successful applicants follow:

Lawrence Henry, 419½ North Croton avenue.

Gladys McCowin, Wampum, R. D. 2.

Leda Dardynski, 420 Denver avenue.

Samuel Clark, 1506 Grimes street.

Daniel Carney, Rigby.

Pauline Hammerschmidt, Slippery Rock, R. D. 3.

Twenty leaders in the fields of business, finance, labor and education have been engaged as speakers for the "1943 Forum Meetings of American Economic Policies" which the Economic and Business Foundation will sponsor at New Wilmington from February 11 to May 13.

Many of the 20 are nationally known, Captain William McKee, president of the foundation said. McKee is head of Westminster's department of business administration.

Top-flight names listed for the course include Dr. Harley Lutz, professor of public finance at Princeton, who recently appeared before the Senate finance committee; Clinton S. Golden, member of the War Manpower Commission and assistant to the president of the United Steelworkers of America, and Corwin D. Edwards, chairman of the policy board of the U. S. Department of Justice.

City Has Been Almost Free From Big Crime

City Detective Bureau Handles 326 Cases In 11 Months Of 1942

CLOSE COOPERATION WITH OTHER OFFICERS

City detective bureau records show that during the first 11 months of the current year the biggest cases which confronted them were one case of felonious assault and battery with intent to kill and one case of manslaughter which developed from an auto accident, according to Chief of detectives Ralph A. Criswell.

Here are a few statistics he provided today:

There were 326 cases of burglarly, theft and auto thefts handled by the department.

There were no sizeable amounts concerned.

September was the biggest "crime month" 42 cases having come before the bureau. One half or 21 cases concerned theft.

Persons taken into custody for various reasons, even plain drunkenness resulted sometimes in fingerprints being taken for record purposes. So far 3,934 "prints" have been taken and equally as many photographs taken.

In addition the local detectives made many checks as the outgrowth of the war one year ago. A close watch has been kept for preventing any possible sabotage and a check is maintained on enemy aliens although Italians are free, it was said, to travel.

Close co-operation has existed between the city, Federal Bureau of Identification, the Pennsylvania Motor police and police departments within close proximity.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Navy To Publish Casualty Lists

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. — The navy will follow the army in allowing nationwide publication of complete casualty lists, secretary of the navy Frank Knox told a press conference today.

Knox had no further comment on the decision but indicated that a fuller announcement would be made by the office of war information or the navy soon.

Under previous policy, newspapers and radio stations could use only the casualties in their circulation or broadcast areas respectively.

WLB Urges Labor, Industry Set Up Own Arbitration

Board Points Out Better Settlement Possible With Local Grievance Machinery

By EDWIN DARBY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The war labor board strongly urged every industry and labor group on Tuesday to establish compulsory arbitration of their grievance disputes.

Asking unions and employers to voluntarily set up a compulsory system by which an "outside" person would make a final settlement of grievances, the WLB warned:

"The board cannot permit accumulations of grievance disputes to impair the morale and efficiency of war plants."

However, the board asserted that "there is no need for either party to give up any of their prerogatives."

Pointing out that unions and employers might "retain full control in their hands" by setting up their own arbitration procedures rather than submit to the WLB, Dr. George Taylor, vice-chairman of the board, stated:

"It is in the national interest that the parties themselves set up and operate their own grievance machinery in order to insure that local problems are finally settled."

Taylor admitted that local arbitrators, agreed upon by both the union and the company, would probably make a better settlement of a grievance case than the WLB, which not acts as a national arbitration board. He declared:

"Those on the scene can, by and large, do a better job than can be done from afar."

OCD NOTES

Activities Of O. C. D. Workers Are Outlined In This Column

NEW TYPES OF BOMB

New types of incendiary bombs, far more dangerous than formerly used, are now being employed by the Axis to scatter death. Some explode on impact, others are delayed bombs. Some are of the ordinary magnesium type and others are filled with live phosphorus or a phosphorus—oil competition. These explosive incendiaries have no great demolishing power but, similar to fragmentation bombs, they are designed to kill or wound.

More Difficult To Combat

These new types of fire bombs create new and greater hazards making the work of those who may be called upon to fight them more difficult but necessitate radical changes in the general tactic of defense against incendiary bombs. Even more important, these bombs compel radical changes in the actual methods of dealing with all incendiaries and the discarding of some previously effective methods now become dangerous because of the explosive manace.

Cancel Previous Instructions

So spoke two of this city's OCD fire and incendiary bomb experts today. They are Captain M. E. Brunton, bomb instructor, No. 39, and City Fireman William Bowen, bomb and war gasses instructor, No. 37. To make people fully aware of the situation they united today, to warn that "the instructions that we have given to your previously should be cancelled." Their statement follows:

New Attack Methods

In an attempt to defeat well organized civilian defense groups and start a large number of major fires as quickly as possible, the enemy is not only using explosive bombs in conjunction with the ordinary type of incendiary but is employing new methods of attack. When conditions make it practicable, enemy raiders may fly at low altitudes and drop explosive and ordinary fire bombs in large clusters. Or, if forced to attack from high altitudes, they drop containers each filled with from 10 to 120 fire bombs, which burst at a low height or upon striking some object, and release their contents. In both cases, a large number of bombs fall within a small area and instead of one or two bombs penetrating a building, five or ten or even more may fall within a single room. This makes the task of dealing with them much more difficult and, if some of the bombs happen to be of the explosive type, the situation is dangerous.

Powerful Explosive

Of the new type incendiaries, one type is being used more extensively than any of the others. This is a high explosive modification of the small magnesium fire bomb. Actually it is an ordinary "kilo" magnesium bomb with a powerful charge of high explosive in an extension fitted to the nose. A wire, running the length of the bomb, holds the two parts together until impact when, usually, they break away and fall a short distance away. The impact causes the fuse in incendiary to light the thermit contents immediately and this, in turn, ignites the magnesium casing. At the same time it ignites a delayed action fuse in the explosive extension which usually, "does not detonate until from one to seven minutes after! And therein lies its greatest danger." The overall length of this bomb is about 21 inches and its weight about five pounds—double of that of the ordinary incendiary which gives it greater penetrative power.

May Be Old Type

Other types of explosives magnesium incendiaries used by the enemy carry the explosive in center or tail. Generally exploding in two minutes.

Many of the fire bombs that may be dropped will be of the old type, but on the other hand, any bomb dropped may be of the explosive type. Therefore, we warn you, that all bombs must now be treated as if they are of the explosive type.

This new explosive extension that we tell you of in reality is a high explosive anti-personnel or fragmentation bomb. When it explodes, the steel casing breaks into countless small pieces which are proppled at a high velocity in all directions and are capable of killing or seriously wounding at a distance of 100 feet or more.

These fragments can penetrate an ordinary lath and plaster wall, or door and most pieces of ordinary furniture which therefore do not offer full protection.

Never Spray Water

Complete protection from the blast of these new bombs is solid brick, concrete, or stone wall 4½ inches thick. While reasonably good protection is afforded by similar walls 3 inches thick.

As we have previously demonstrated and explained to you, to use a stream of water, (never spray) on all these latest type bombs. As it is the only means by which a burning bomb and any fires set by it can be attacked with equal effectiveness. It is also the only form in which water can be applied to a burning bomb from a safe distance.

We have put out these bombs with less than 3 gallons of water.

Short range methods previously demonstrated by us, approaching the bomb closely should now never be attempted.

To try to extinguish a bomb with a sand bag or loose sand, will now expose you unduly to danger, if it happens to be an explosive one.

Stay Away Seven Minutes

Do not approach or expose yourself to a burning bomb during the first seven minutes. After that it is reasonably safe to deal with it at close quarters in the normal way.

If possible, attack a burning bomb in a room through a door way from behind a wall or from the outside through a window using the exterior wall of the building as a shield.

We advise you to never touch, move or otherwise attempt to deal with an unignited bomb. . "Report all unignited bombs to your nearest air raid warden."

NO MEETING THURSDAY

There will be no class held in St. Mary's basement on New Year's Eve. The next session will be held at 7:30 p. m., January 7.

All first aid manuals have been distributed. Any person in OCD service may secure one free at their post quarters.

Some of the hose which the OCD at Washington said was on the way has arrived but has not yet been opened here it was learned today.

Industry has been asked to not use their whistles to shove out the Old Year or drag in the New Year.

New classes will begin after New Year.

New classes will begin after New Year's. For information call OCD 6586.

Seven Teams To Compete; New Year's To Bring 'Pal Day'

Basketball teams of seven Hi-Y clubs of New Castle district schools will complete at the "Y" in their annual New Year's tournament Thursday afternoon commencing at 1 o'clock, Dario Baptist, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A. announctd today.

New Year's day will bring a "Pal Day" program with boys of all boys' department classes joining for swimming and informal games in the morning. Each member may bring along a guest.

The holiday will find the association observing "open house" for the public all day long, a customary New Year's practice.

Secretary Baptist urged that the participating basketball groups report promptly at 1 on Thursday to permit a swift arrangement of the afternoon schedule.

Vital War Mail Will Be Moved Here New Year's

Dispitach of incoming and outgoing mail of New Castle district war industries will not halt for a minute over the New Year's holiday, postmaster William R. Hanna announced this morning.

The post office force—all but a skeleton holiday crew—will observe Friday as a holiday. All post office windows will be closed and there will be no mail deliveries.

"We will see that all mail for the war plants moves along as on any day," the postmaster declared. "That mail is too important to delay".

"A sugar report," in the army means a letter from a girl friend.

To Charge Murder In Cousin Slaying

Pittsburgh Detective Will File Information Against County Police Sergeant

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 30.—Detective Inspector Walter Monagahn planned today to file an information formally charging Sgt. John Boggs, of the county police, with murder for the fatal shooting of his cousin on December 19, despite a coroner's jury recommendation that he be held only on a manslaughter charge.

Monaghan said his action was recommended by the district attorney's office. City detectives testified at the coroner's hearing that the shooting was accidental, but Monaghan pointed out that Boggs had unlawfully pointed his service gun at his wife, and that 'murder, therefore, was committed in the commission of an unlawful act."

A bullet from Boggs' revolver, during a family argument with his wife, penetrated a wall and fatally wounded his cousin, Edward Williams, 32. The victim's mother, Mrs. Mary Williams, testified at the hearing that her son and the county officer were the best of friends.

War Brides Form Group To Assist U. S. War Effort

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND. — Wartime children are being cared for by a "foster-mother's" organization and soldiers on leave are entertained by USO volunteers, but wartime brides are not only supporting themselves while worrying about their young husbands, but also find time to make patriotic use of their spare time.

Proof of their desire to be helpful is shown in the formation of Cleveland's most exclusive and newest club—the War Bride's' Club—an organization of young women married on or after October 25, 1941.

"We hope to do what we can toward strengthening the home front," Mrs. Mary E. Brewer, spark plug and leader of the group said. "There are lots of ways we can help out in after office hours and working together, we ought to be able to accomplish a great deal."

At present the brides are working on a bandage project. Other activities include volunteer nursing aid work at local hospitals and serving as USO hostesses on call. Many of the brides knit and a course for air raid wardens has also been started.

Cotton is used in the desert warfare. Improved cotton cords enable jumbo tires of Army vehicles to withstand terrific heat and stress.

Joint Group May Study Peace Plans

Bi-Partisan Movement For Joint Congressional Committee Being Promoted

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A bipartisan movement for creation of a joint congressional committee to study peace plans today was being promoted by some members of congress as a means of check-mating New Deal proposals for post-war reconstruction.

The proposal, a reliable source divulged, already has been discussed by some democratic and republican members of the new 78th congress who fear that too big a burden of maintaining order in the after-the-war world may be placed on the United States.

The agitation has been heightened by suggestions of some officials that many of the peace problems may be handled through trade treaties or conventions rather than by the negotiation of a general treaty, subject to ratification by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

The possibility of a long armistice, during which reconstruction might be carried on largely through the powers vested in the president, was also seen by some members as a threat to the power of congress to have an equal voice in the post-war settlement.

The proposal for creation of a joint congressional committee, it was said, stems also to some degree from speeches of Vice President Wallace in which he has outlined America's role in the future.

While the congressional advocates of a joint committee say that congress and the nation will back the administration in demanding a peace settlement that will prevent a recurrence of the war, they hold that there are limits to America's role.

Five States Alert To Smallpox Peril

Pennsylvania Authorities Reveal Carrier Made Extended Tour

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—Health officials in five states were on the alert today for a possible outbreak of smallpox after Pennsylvania authorities disclosed that an infected person from Ohio had visited Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware and possibly Maryland.

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Health Conservation, identified the smallpox carrier as Mrs. Andrew Weaver. He said he understood that she has returned to her home, where she had been quarantined. She lived on a farm, he asserted. Also quarantined with Mrs. Weaver were her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Miller, who contracted the disease and became ill after they returned to Ohio, he stated.

According to Dr. Campbell, a Negro porter apparently caught the disease when he came in contact with Mrs. Weaver at the Lewistown railroad depot when the two couples boarded a train. His wife and a boy, who live in Lancaster, caught the malady from him and five other residents of surrounding Amish communities in Lancaster county contracted the disease also when Mrs. Weaver visited there, Dr. Campbell related.

Mrs. Weaver also attended an Amish wedding at Belleville, near Lewistown. An outbreak of the disease in the Kishacoquillas valley resulted in the quarantining of the entire population of 2,500 people there. So far 31 cases have been reported from Mifflin county, said the state health director.

Dr. Campbell said Mrs. Weaver visited Dover and Wilmington, Del., a conscientious objectors' camp at Luray, Va., and possibly Maryland before attending the Amish wedding in Pennsylvania.

Forty tons of breakfast bacon were consumed on Canadian National railways dining cars during 1941.

From 30 to 40 gallons of maple sap are needed to make a gallon of maple syrup.

Women Do Men's Work In Southern Pacific Shops

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—More than 700 women have donned overalls in the San Francisco and Oakland shops and stores of the Southern Pacific Company in an effort to relieve the shortage brought about by the call of 8,500 male employes to the armed forces.

Over the Pacific coast 2,000 women employed by the company are operating drill presses, bolt cutting machines, paint spraying and oiling appliances.

Do The Work Of Men

They are working as blacksmiths helpers, rivet heaters, firelighters and turntable operators. They are swarming to hundreds of other jobs which in pre-war days were considered exclusively masculine occupations — serving as tractor drivers, wipers, scrap sorters, and cutters, yard and crew clerks, timekeepers, steam hammer drivers, sandhouse attendants, firemen, blue printers, store helpers and equipment supply checkers.

During World War I some women were employed by the Southern Pacific to take the places of men serving at the front, but most of them were engaged in such "housekeeping chores" as the cleaning of shops and cars, tidying railroad yards, and steam cleaning locomotive parts.

Many of these veterans of World War I have remained ever since on the company's roster as car cleaners.

Operate Steam Hammer

But the day is past when women working for railroads serve only in "white apron" jobs or as telegraphers or dispatchers.

One of the gargantuan 1,800 pound steam hammer at the S. P.'s Bayshore shops in San Francisco is operated by Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes, a tall, slender mother of a 16-year-old boy. Her husband Amos A. Barnes is employed in the same shop, as a blacksmith.

"Why shouldn't I make a good blacksmith's helper?" Mrs. Barnes asks. "I've been a blacksmith's helper for years!"

Mrs. Barnes hung up her apron and donned dungarees last September. When the news of her job as a hammer driver reached her father—himself a veteran railroad man—Mrs. Barnes reports, he didn't bat an eye.

'A Good Railroad Man'

"Well, I'm getting Elizabeth will make a darned good railroad man," her dad said.

Another of the mammoth hammers is given a workout for eight hours a day by diminutive Mrs. Edith Workman, a housewife and mother of three daughters, who says of her determination to do a man's work:

"It's no harder than driving a car."

But beside the tiny wife and mother who operates the levers with an expert touch, that 1,200 pound hammer looks pretty formidable.

So it appears that for the duration at least, when railroaders join in the song "We've been working for the railroad," it will be a chorus of mixed voices.

Byrnes says farmers can pay hands over $2,400 a year. His old neighbors in South Carolina wonder how that last naught got in there.

When a girl's called a "drag" by an army man, she is in camp with an escort.

Landis-Eastman To Confer Today

Spring Training, Major League Season Traveling Plans Will Be Ironed Out

K. M. TO OFFER TWO SCHEDULES

By BILL ZIMMERMAN
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis and Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, meet today to work out definite plans for spring training and the regular major league season.

Landis, who came to Washington from Chicago to clear up the uncertainty about baseball's policy for 1943, will present two new regular season schedules to Eastman for his approval.

One schedule calls for the standard 154 games and the original closing date of Sept. 26, but delays the opening date from April 13 to April 27. The other schedule contains 140 games, such as was in vogue during the first world war.

The major leagues have expressed their willingness to fully cooperate with any suggestion or order from the Office of Defense Transportation and are ready to accept whichever schedule is acceptable to Eastman.

Favor Delayed Opening

It is believed that the new schedule which delays opening of the season will be adopted. Will Harridge, president of the American league, said in Chicago that he was certain that the majority of the club owners in his league would agree to delaying the season opener.

In accordance with Eastman's request to curtail travel, most of the major league teams have already abandoned Florida, Texas and California as training sites and have voluntarily reduced all spring travel by approximately 75 per cent.

There has been much uncertainty about future plans, however, and the major leagues have been somewhat hesitant about completing their spring training programs since their formal meetings in Chicago several weeks ago.

When Landis returns to Chicago he is expected to call a joint meeting of the 16 major league clubs shortly after the first of the year.

Junior Cage Loop Will Meet Tonight

Junior Church league managers will meet in the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7 o'clock, to complete plans for the opening of the circuit on Saturday.

Teams requested to send representatives:

Third U. P., Epworths, Central Christians, Second U. P., Central Presbyterians, First Baptists, First Christians, First Presbyterians, St. George and Trinity.

BUSY IN SPORTS

The Naval Training school of Iowa State college will have basketball, swimming, wrestling and boxing this winter. The teams are known as the Typhoons. Iowa State teams are the Cyclones.

'Canes' Face Alumni Cagers Friday Night

Battle Listed For George Washington Court Starting At 8 O'Clock

After a much needed rest, New Castle high's cagers get another taste of pre-season competition on New Year's night at 8 o'clock on George Washington junior high floor.

The red and black clad bouncers match technique with the Alumni in a much awaited clash.

Firing for the grads will be Bob "General" Lee, who doesn't graduate until June. The sensational athlete, ineligible to compete in varsity sports because of the 19-year age limit, has been granted permission to participate with the Alumni.

Other standouts include "Lindy Lauro, Tommy Parou, Bob Stewart, who plays for Shadyside academy, Pittsburgh, and Eddie Cowden.

Fans who follow the 'Canes don't need a sales talk regarding the former basketeers.

Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner remarked today that the contest will afford fans a last chance of seeing the Alumni athletes in action since ever member of the starting five soon may be playing for Uncle Sam's team.

The schoolboy lineup probably will pair Jacobs and Andrews at forwards; Zubkowsky at center, and Burris and Razzano at guards.

In the preliminary attraction, the Ben Franklin junior high club pitches against the 'Cane Reserves starting at 7.

U. C. L. A.-Georgia Check Ammunition

Sinkwich Trots On Rose Bowl Turf; Rivals Have Light Drills

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 30.—It was all over but the shouting today as the gridiron warriors of Georgia and U. C. L. A. rechecked their offensive ammunition for the battle of the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

As the zero hour for attack approached, Generals Wally Butts of Georgia and Babe Horrell of the Uclans sent their men through light last-minute maneuvers which were merely tune-ups for the impending armageddon of the pigskin world.

In both high-pitched camps, the wounded were recovering and promised to join their comrades on the Pasadena battlefield Friday.

Flatfoot Franki Sinkwich, hero of a score of Georgia campaigns, tramped the Rose Bowl turf at half speed in yesterday's drill, still evidencing a couple of delicate ankles. After a brief signal drill, Butts withrhew his ace and injected Charlie Trippi.

Looking even sharper than Sinkwich, the juvenile back completed 109 of 110 pass attempts—indicating that the Bulldogs probably will use their vaunted aerial attack against the Bruins.

REGARDED TOPS

Sports Ramblings

Short takes:

Post Christmas greetings to New Castleites have been received from Walter "Baldy" McGrath. The ex-local resident, currently a hotel boss in Willimantic, Conn., was a one-time high school cage star, sprouting from the band.

Corporal Sam Pallerino, who wore Shenango high's grid armor, writes from Happy Valley. Sam, a South Hills slugger in civilian life, and William McCallion, another localite, are starring in baseball, a year around sport where they're stationed. They forward greetings to New Castle friends.

Butler high's cage team, recent conqueror of New Castle, is piloted by Charles Moore, former assistant at Bessemer high. If the smooth operating club isn't shattered by graduation, ineligibility, etc., Moore's quint should have an unusually successful season. The combo didn't lack a thing against the 'Canes.

BOBO AWARDED 'DURATION' TITLE

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 30.—Harry Bobo, giant Negro from Pittsburgh, today was the "duration" heavyweight boxing champion of the world—according to the Columbus Boxing Commission.

Bobo outpointed aging Buddy Walker, Columbus Negro, to take a unanimous 10-round decision last night. There were no knockdowns. Bobo weighed in at 207 to Walker's 191.

Things we can do without: The Athletics and Phillies, smart enough to avert playing each other for not enough seasons are going to unfurl their technique before the '43 campaign swings open. Maybe they're going to show fans the exact meaning of the adjective—futile.

Since last spring, baseball deliv-ered 4,659 individually packed kits, each containing a dozen balls and three bats, and 647 sets containing complete catching equipment to 900 camps throughout the world. What has collegiate football, a lucrative sport, done? Nothing.

The point I'm trying to bring out is that if Uncle Sam extends a helping hand to baseball and thumbs down to football the swivel chair guy shouldn't moan. The ran-rah game has done a lot to prove that the whole thing is a pure case of selfishness.

After being hit on the head with everything but the proverbial water bucket, the Rose Bowlers have voted to give Uncle Sam $25,000. That's sweeet....If you think operating a track isn't a risky venture, consider this: Tropical park needs a $150,000 daily handle to meet its overhead.

WAR BONDS are the sinews of war. Come on, pal, let's have more sinews.

Ted Lyons, 42, Tops American League Hurlers

Owns Earned Run Average Of 2.10; Garners 14 Wins, Loses 6

PHIL MARCHILDON MOST GENEROUS

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—They come along once in a lifetime—baseball guys like Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox—and it was only fitting in what was probably the twilight season of a great career, that 42-year-old Ted should prove the best pitcher in the American league during 1942!

Lyons, the good-natured, good-looking fellow who has been a cornerstone at Comiskey Park, Chicago, for the past 20 years, finished with an earned run average of 2.10 tallies per game for 180 innings and won 14 games against 6 losses for a .700 percentage, league averages revealed today.

Last Year Best

Ted's last year was one of his best. He has just joined the Marines and we don't think very many fans realize just how old the husky, handsome guy really was until the leather-neck records were revealed.

Lyon's earned run average was second to that of Tom Ferrick of the Indians. Tom finished with an ERA of 2.00 runs even in 81 innings but only was credited with three wins and two defeats.

A couple of comparative babies, Ernie Bonham of the Yankees and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox also had exceptionally good years. The former won 21 and lost five for an .808 mark while Hughson won the most games, 22, and lost six for a .786 percentage. Ernie was third in the won and lost column and third in the ERA standing with a mark of 2.27.

Wilburn Butland of the Red Sox led the parade in the won and lost column with seven wins against one defeat for an .875 mark and tied the major league mark for put-outs in a game by a pitcher with 5.

The deadened ball, made necessary by substitution of materials and the fact that it was used longer during games for conservation purposes promised tighter pitching during the year and the records proved the point.

The league's general ERA this season was 3.66 as compared with 4.158, 1941, while total earned runs dropped from 5,109 to 4,443 and the total number of runs scored fell from 5,902 to 5,211.

Marchildon Generous

The most generous man in the league proved to be Phil Marchildon of the Athletics. Phil gave up 140 walks in 244 innings and hit the most batsmen, 13, and also uncorked a similar number of wild pitches, to lead the loop in that department for the second straight year. Philip salvaged some credit from the wreckage, however, fanning 110 batters.

Some short pitches: Hughson led league in strikeouts with 113, pitched the most innings, 281, and faced the most batters, 1,052. He also tied with Bonham for most complete games, 22 . . . Lyons finished every one of the 20 games he started . . . Most runs were scored off Sid Huson, Washington, 140 . . . For second straight year, and 20th in history of league, not a single no-hit game was turned in during the season. This constitutes a new major league record.

West Grid Team Plans To Use "T"

Andy Kerr, Of Eastern Squad Ill; In Hospital With Bronchitis

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Agreed on the "T" formation as their plan of battle in the annual east-west Shrine game New Year's Day, west Coaches Don Faurot and Babe Hollingbery today drilled their charges in that style of attack with the offensive built around a nucleus of Stanford and Missouri players.

At Missouri, Faurot used the "T" to win two successive Big Six titles and he is convinced it is the stuff to give the west its fourth victory in the classic since 1937.

The east squad, meantime, went through workouts with Co-Coach Andy Kerr, the wee Scot from Colgate, absent from the sidelines due to illness. The veteran coach, who has taken part in 16 Shrine games, was confined to the hospital with bronchitis and it was feared he may have to miss Friday's contest.

Stanford-Lakes In Sugar Game

Cage Fray Highlights Program Tonight; Darkness Halts Tennis Match

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 30.—Confident of extending their 2 to 1 set lead to victory, Charles Mattman of New York and Bill Talbot of Cincinnati were ready to meet Earl Bartlett and Jack Tuero, both of New Orleans, in the Sugar Bowl tennis doubles finals today.

Darkness halted the match yesterday with Mattman and Talbot leading 6-2, 8-6, 9-11.

One of the highlights of tonight's athletic contests is the basketball game between the Great Lakes Bluejackets and the Stanford Indians, defending N.C.A.A. champions.

Stanford's superior height worried the sailors in their workout yesterday. Four of the starting Indian players are 6 feet 3 inches or more.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Branch Rickey, new president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today stood out as the number one major league baseball executive in the eyes of Sporting News, national baseball publication.

It was the second time Rickey won the publication's award. He won it first in the year of its inception, 1936, and this year because he "furnished the tools" that enabled the Cardinals to win the National league pennant and the world's series.

Southworth also was a "two-timer," winning recognition for the second time straight. Williams, too, had been previously recognized by the publication.

(International News Service)

McALLEN, Tex., Dec. 30.—Terry Moore, outfielder and captain of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, revealed Tuesday that he has entered the armed services and is through with baseball for the duration.

Moore told International News Service he will be on duty "at the Panama canal" in about two weeks, but he was not permitted to say which branch of the service he had entered.

"Of course I'm sorry to leave baseball, but you've just got to take it on the chin like everybody else," he said. "After all, I've had enough baseball anyhow. It's these young fellows just going up in the game that I feel sorry for."

"I'm here in San Francisco," DiMaggio said, "and everything is just as it was before Christmas."

Mrs. DiMaggio arrived in Reno several weeks ago with the announced intention of seeking a divorce.

RANGERS LEVEL BRUINS

(International News Service)

Piling up a score of 4 to 0 in the first two periods, the New York Rangers today had earned the right to call themselves "rehabilitated," after levelling the Boston Bruins, 5 to 3, in one of the swiftest games played on Boston ice.

The game left the Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs tied for first place in the league.

CHICAGO CUBS DONATE FENCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Few major league clubs can boast of being as patriotic as the Chicago Cubs.

Last summer, the Cubs donated a large quantity of rubber runways to the war effort.

Their latest donation is the iron fence that surrounded a plot of grass in front of Wrigley Field.

Pro, Collegiate Football Doomed, Eddie Tryon Says

Ex-Colgate Sensation Foresees High School Sport Reaching Peak

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—The end of pro and college football for the duration and the rise of the schoolboy variety to the highest peak in its history was predicted today by Eddie Tryon, who umpired Philadelphia's "Frost Bowl" game last Sunday.

"I'm not trying to kid myself," declared the former Colgate University backfield sensation of 17 years ago. "I can't see how the colleges and pro football teams will be able to function next year. What are they going to use for players? Symbols?

"Most of the college players and quite a few in the pro ranks will be called to the colors before another season arrives.

"But the high schools fit into the picture perfectly. Their schedules usually are with schools only a few miles apart, causing no worry over transportation. The army won't bother the kids until they reach 18."

Argentina has prohibited the shooting of partridges, except in sports events, until 1945.

Bums May Train On Yale U. Camp

Branch Rickey Highly In Favor Of New Haven Collegiate Site

By JACK MAHON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Can you imagine Kirby Higbe and Bobo Newsom romping over the campus in caps and gowns and Ducky Medwick boning for a Ph.D.? Would you like to see Leo (The Lip) Durocher earn his "Y" for effort and conduct all his discussions with umpires in 1943 in Oxford English, punctuated with quotations on the quality of mercy, and several other splendid thoughts for the day, dreamed up by that old wit, Willie Shakespeare?

Well, don't laugh, brother. It could happen here. Unless a complete about-face on the part of Branch (The Brain) Rickey takes place, the Dodgers of 1943 will train for the coming season at Dear Old Eli College!

May Welcome Bums

We can state, on virtually positive authority, today that the U. S. Army Air Corps, who reportedly put a crimp into Rickey's plans to train the Darlings of the Gowanus at the Yale baseball cage this spring, will not require the services of this building and undoubtedly will welcome the Dodgers in New Haven.

Our source reported the army will quarter air cadets there for training but will not need enough space to interfere with the Brooklyn Bums.

Rickey is highly in favor of New Haven as a training site and undoubtedly has received this news by the grapevine, although no official announcement has been made by either Army or Yale authorities.

Secretary John McDonald plans to visit New Haven in the next day or so inspect housing conditions and when Rickey returns to town, Monday, will have the complete set-up outlined for his approval.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Three cheers for big, bushy-browed Ed Barrow! The offer of the president of the New York Yankees to have his club train for the 1943 baseball season at home quite likely will result in at least temporary abandonment of one of the biggest fandangoes in all sports—the spring training camp.

Now, like any winter-weary sports writer, I always welcomed a chance to leave this cold climate for a two-month sojourn in the sunny south. I welcomed the soft, warming breezes that swept off the ocean and the basking in the sunshine and the steaks (at the expense of the ball club I was covering) and the general lackadaisical atmosphere surrounding spring training camps. Oh, but it was fun—and about all, I might add.

Jaunt Unnecessary

Taking the more logical viewpoint, I have often wondered how any athlete needs two solid months of sunshine and fresh air to get into shape for a five months season. There simply isn't any reason why baseball players should travel south and be forced to undergo the soft breezes and the sunshine when two weeks of concentrated work in a hometown gymnasium would accomplish the same thing. After all, a baseball player must be in pretty good shape the year around.

Ty Cobb—and who can say there ever was a better one—used to do that. Of course, Cobb prided himself on always being in shape and needed little in conditioning in the wonderful springtime but what he can do others can do too. The best year Charley (Red) Ruffing of the New York Yankees ever had was the year he became a holdout, largely to skip the spring training grind than anything else, and trained in a gymnasium. And many of the spring's most publicized holdouts actually are holding out, not for more cash, but to avoid the job they admittedly hate—spring training.

There's a question, too, of how much work the ballplayers actually do on their junkets south, the idea is that fresh air and exercise will put the players in shape. Actually, however, the boys will do almost anything to keep from taking any exercise. When the Brooklyn Dodgers trained in Havana the ballpark was way over on the other side of the town. The first day, a bus hired to transport the players to the park failed to appear and do you know what the Dodgers did? They sat down on the curb and refused to budge until the bus came to take them to the park. The mile or so walk involved would have been too much like exercise!

Good Publicity Stunt

Training camps always have been excused for two reasons: (1) The training period is needed to give rookies tryouts under big league conditions, and (2) It's good publicity for the ball clubs, both the camp itself and the long, meaningless barnstorming trips north when the teams play in every town from Lakadisical, Fla., to Mudcat, Missouri.

The rookie tryout idea is all right. Take 'em south, but only for a couple of weeks. Give 'em a good chance to make good—but their real training will come in the minor league seasons from which the spring. As for the other reason, that's the bunk! Baseball can do itself a lot more good in the eyes of the public, especially in wartime, by training at home and cutting down travel and proving it meant it when it kicked in thousands of dollars to the war effort last year. And the ballplayers themselves, who hate the long trips south, will be in just as good condition as they ever were.

Thousands Are Being Vaccinated

Flocking To Physicians' Offices To Be Inoculated Following Outbreak

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—Thousands of people throughout the state were reported flocking to physicians' offices to be inoculated against smallpox as state and local health authorities strove today to confine the disease to the two counties where it has been discovered.

Thirty-nine cases have been reported so far, all linked to an Ohio woman who visited Pennsylvania before Christmas. Thirty-one of them have been found in the Kishacoquillas Valley in Mifflin county, where the Ohioan attended an Amish wedding, and eight in Lancaster county.

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the State Bureau of Health Conservation, said no deaths were anticipated "unless the virulence increases." He estimated that more than 5,000 people have already been vaccinated in Mifflin county alone.

Dr. Campbell said it was the worst outbreak of smallpox in Pennsylvania in a decade. Only nine cases were previously reported during the past 10 years.

A free vaccination clinic was opened in Lancaster City yesterday and physicians also reported a big rush of patients to their offices. All Lancaster City hospitals were closed to visitors, except in extreme emergencies, and then only those with special passes may be admitted. Graduate nurses on duty at the hospitals were being vaccinated. Some physicians reported as many as 25 persons waiting in their offices at one time to be vaccinated.

The Blue Ridge Parkway in North Carolina is the highest highway east of the Rockies, averaging over 4,000 feet.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

It might seem a little early to you but to the fellow who knows a little about gardening . . . now is the time to start a plan. This coming summer Victory Gardens are going to be much more popular than they were last year . . . last summer many had gardens because they thought it was the stylish thing to do . . this coming year they are going to have gardens because it will be the right thing to do. . . . Grow your own food. With canned foods on the ration list after February 1 . . . it will be mighty fine to be in a position to open a jar of your own vegetables next winter. So get out your seed books . . . and look around and see if you can't find a suitable piece of land for a good old fashioned garden.

* * *

The little queen is gradually getting over Christmas . . . day by day she seems to put this and that together and the story of Christmas Day grows. And so it is with all the children of the world. . . . Christmas is meant for them and their wonderful little imaginations. . . . That is another thing that we are fighting this war for . . . peace for those to come.

* * *

The American people in the past have been so very inventive that it is very interesting to look into the future and try to guess what will happen. There will be hundreds of things that will be invented that today we know nothing about. . . . New items that we will be using every day of the year . . . the only change that we hope they don't make concerns food. . . . When the ultra-modern age comes along some say that instead of sinking your teeth into a big juicy steak that you will just swallow a pill and that will be all. Eating is too much fun to have it taken away and pills put there instead. . . . Of course today we eat heavily and then turn right areund and take pills. . . . But that's different. And the new items that will be made from plastic . . . steel will be something that is used in building buildings of large cities . . . plasties will take steels place in a great many places. . . . Even bath tubs will be made from plastic someday. . . . Yes we have a great future to look

Trading Tapers Off After Fast Start—Gains And Losses Small

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The stock market worked irregularly higher in forenoon dealings today but trading tapered off after a fast start.

Numerous cash sales for tax purposes were in evidence. Many large blocks of the lower priced issues changed hands.

Gains and losses in most cases were extremely small. While the majority of shares were higher, leaders like steels and motors were inclined to lag. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem each declined a fraction. Chrysler slipped but General Motors was steady.

Stocks to gain minor ground included Standard Oil of N. J., General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Dow Chemical, International Nickel, Air Reduction, Pennsylvania, North American, Douglas, and United Aircraft.

Slight losses were shown by Du-Pont in Chemicals, American Can, American Telephone and Kennecott Copper.

U. S. Soldier Is An Inventor In Civilian Life

(International News Service)

A NORTH ATLANTIC BASE—Pfc. Edward Strelecky, 33, of Chicago, today is performing two services for America's war effort.

First he's a soldier in the infantry at this American-manned base. And secondly, he's an inventor whose mechanical improvements are speeding up the spinning wheels of U. S. war factories.

In civilian life Strelecky is a tool and die maker. In 1938, he invented an automatic tool grinder which eliminates several time-consuming processes. In 1940, he patented a hydraulic lathe process, a radical departure from previous methods of hand labor.

Together Strelecky's inventions save 15 per cent of the time needed for tool grinding, once one of the biggest bottlenecks in the defense program. Both of Strelecky's devices are in wide use from coast to coast.

The soldier-inventor receives royalties for both patents.

Despite his position in the tool and die industrty, he was drafted in June, 1941. He was released from the army in October, 1941, because he was over 28 years old but he was called back in January, 1942.

Dakota means "alliance of friends" and is a Sioux Indian name. "Koda" in Santee dialect and "Kola" in Teton dialect are the root names.

The more we ignore China and Russia, who have shown more foresight and skill than we have, the more we must pay for victory.

It was decided to have the planned fox hunt on Sunday morning beginning at 8 o'clock. It will take place at the dog training area near the club house, and will be "engineered" by Frank Coen, game commissioner.

A joint meeting of the trustees of the Ellwood and Wampum clubs followed the directors' meeting. The trustees request any person, having live Christmas trees that they wish to dispose of, to contact any of the members. The trees will be planted on the club grounds.

The trustees are pleased to announce that the clubs will be completely free of debt by January 1.

Got A Big Kick When Our Planes Attacked Japan

(International News Service)

MIDDLETOWN, Pa.—The planes were flying low bombing the city, but Clvaude Ettle, 53, was happy. The planes were American bombers and the city was Yokohama.

Ettle, who represented the Standard Vacuum Oil company in Japan for 25 years, related while on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ettle, the thrill he received when Gen. James Doolittle and his men bombed the Japanese.

Hearing low-flying planes one day while confined to his home in Yokohama, Ettle glanced out a window and saw three American bombers skimming over the Japanese metropolis.

Ettle and 40 others were imprisoned on the day Pearl Harbor was attacked on charges of suspicion of espionage and kept in jail for four months. In April he was permitted to return to his home in Yokohama and on June 17 sailed on the exchange ship, the Gripsholm, arriving in this country on August 26. His wife and children, two of whom were born in Japan, had left that country before the war began.

Educator Praises Average Student

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA — The student with average mental capacity is far less a problem to his professors than his brighter classmate, reports Dr. James D. Page, instructor in psychology at Temple University.

The average student, according to Dr. Page, oft-times becomes a better leader because he is better able to organize his daily study routine and fights just a little harder.

Better students fail to attain good grades, states Dr. Page, because of disorganized study habits and failure to establish a goal for themselves.

HOE, HOE!

(International News Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C. — Unless Vancouver women can be persuaded to take up the bucket and hoe instead of the wash-tub and broom, a serious vegetable famine is in prospect, members of the Women's Agriculture Committee warn. Market gardeners, the committee said, have declared they are only going to produce enough for themselves next year. Present farm workers may be bonused to stay on the job rather than flock to higher-waged war industries.

Allies Press Deeper Into Jap Defenses

Relentless Attacks Being Made In Buna Mission Area In New Guinea

(International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 30—Attacking relentlessly under cover of Allied Air Forces, American and Australian jungle fighters today pressed deeper into the Jap defenses in the Buna Mission area of New Guinea.

An official communique from field headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur said that on the right of the battle sector the Allied troops expanded their initial wedge into the strong Jap defenses farther to the west.

"On the left," the communique said, "an enemy strongpoint containing 13 bunkers was reduced at dusk."

Gen. MacArthur announced that the beleaguered Japs launched a counter-attack at one point but were soundly repulsed.

While attacking troops pressed their drive into the Jap positions other Allied forces carried out mopping up operations over captured portions of the battle sector.

Allied Air Forces continued active over a wide expanse of the Southwest Pacific, carrying out raids against Jap bases at Kavieng, New Ireland, Gasmata, on New Britain, and at Lae, Northeast New Guinea.

The attack on Kavieng was a prolonged night assault aimed at the Jap airdrome there. Large fires were started by bombs dropped from medium bombers, one blaze burning for 90 minutes.

It was said that heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered from Jap batteries during the raid but all of the Allied planes came away safely.

The airdrome at Gasmata also was pounded by medium bombers which pock-marked the field's runways.

Fires were started in the dispersal areas of the airdrome at Lae when heavy bombers assaulted that enemy base.

Secret Well Kept By Women Workers

Pittsburgh Firm Printing War Ration Book, Too Finds Women Close-Mouthed

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 30.—The person who claims that women can't keep a secret better take a seat in the rear.

Because in Pittsburgh where a printer is busy turning out war ration book No. 2, at least 50 per cent of the employes are women and the secret has been well kept.

The printer won't allow his own customers in the plant and, in addition, a watchman is on duty continuously. A government inspector also is on hand and the plant is guarded by electrically operated doors to keep out all but plant employes.

The special precautions are necessary, it was explained, so that the books cannot be stolen or counterfeited.

The Pittsburgh firm, it was learned, is one of 18 throughout the nation working on the 150,000,000 ration books. Only the actual printing is done by these plants, the government printing office does the composing room work. The plates for the printing are shipped from Washington.

All spoilage and waste is burned by the government inspector personally to prevent any of the secret paper from falling into the hands of outsiders.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—China's military mission to the United States today is preparing to return home to Chungking.

One or two members of the mission may be left in Washington as liaison officers, but most of the group, headed by Gen. Hsiung Shih-Fei, are going back to China, and they are not expected to return to the United States.

Return of the mission to China is due partly to reasons of a personal nature and partly because General Hsiung and his associates feel the United States is not paying sufficient attention to China's role in the war.

When General Hsiung came to Washington last summer, the Chinese understood that he would take an active part in the joint United Nations military and naval staff meetings. The Chinese also believe he would act as a special adviser to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson on the Far Eastern situation.

"Help Yourself" In Cafeteria Strike

Labor Department Employes Walk Out During Lunch Hour Leaving Patrons Hungry

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—It was true "help yourself" style for 30 minutes on Tuesday when a wildcat strike hit the cafeteria in—of all places—the labor department.

Eighty cafeteria employees walked off their jobs at 12:10 p. m. as hungry labor department and War Labor Board patrons began pouring in for lunch.

Cafeteria supervisors who were not involved in the strike cooperated as patrons served the food themselves until union agents persuaded the strikers to go back to work.

The employees had been granted wage increases retroactive to Nov. 1, but the increases have not yet been approved by the War Labor Board. The workers demanded immediate payment of the wage boost.

"V" HEIFER CALF BORN NEAR MERCER

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Dec. 30.—William Mursch, who lives on the former James Hartt farm, three miles south of Mercer, on the Perry highway comes forward with a Bob Ripley "Believe it or not" story. On Christmas day one of his dairy cows gave birth to a heifer calf, with birth marks of perfectly formed letters "V" on each shoulder. Those believing in signs take it to mean the coming victory of the United States in its war. The calf is attracting a good deal of attention.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

William Shakespeare wrote "A Comedy of Errors" but it remained for County Controller Frank W. Hill, Deputy Juvenile Officer Lester W. McClelland and Abe Klingensmith to give the play a modern twist. And they did things Bill Shakespeare never thought of.

On Tuesday night the three men had to go to New Brighton for an inspection of the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps. The night was foggy and the going was tough. Half way to New Brighton the lights went off and McClelland laid out on the fender with a flashlight, Klingensmith standing on the running board to relay instructions to Hill, who was driving.

As they approached the long hill into New Brighton three hitch hikers suddenly popped up out of the fog and Hill hit the brakes. Klingensmith took off like a four-motored bomber into the foggy night.

The three got into New Brighton and got the lights fixed and started back about midnight. About one and a half miles west of Wampum the car developed a flat tire. The jack wouldn't work, the tire wrench wouldn't work either. They walked into Wampum and got some friends out who drove out and replaced the tire. When the three got home they looked like the night crew of a ditch digging outfit. The inspection of the local company will be held on January 18.

HONOR ROLL

The county commissioners are arranging for an honor roll board to be placed on the court house lawn which will show the names of all Lawrence county service men and women who have been killed in action, died of wounds or died of accident or disease in service. Walter Dietterle will erect the board and the list of names will be prepared by A. Lewis Conn, chief clerk of the permanent registration bureau.

Joe Howard's Wife Files Separation

Sentimental Ballad Composer's Eighth Wife Charges Cruelty, Abandonment

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Joe E. Howard's eighth wife, a 30-year-old ex-model and radio songstress, filed a separation suit on Tuesday charging the author of numerous sentimental ballads such as "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" with cruelty and abandonment.

She also seeks $200 weekly alimony from the 78-year-old composer who, she alleges, has an unquenchable thirst for intoxicating liquors.

"My husband appears on the radio each Monday night," Mrs. Howard No. 8 informed the court. "And after his broadcast he would commence drinking intoxicating liquors and this would last throughout the week until Friday...he would give himself that short period of time between Friday and Monday to become sober and to be in fit condition for his usual Monday night broadcast."

She charged that Howard deserted her last October 28 and has refused to return home.

Announcement of extension of the "can-for-can" purchase plan, first tried out in nearby Milltown, was announced by Mayor Harry W. Dwyer following a meeting of local salvage directors and grocers.

Enthusiastic Texas Raises War Money

Money Left From Cruiser Enough To Build Aircraft Carrier "San Jacinto"

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Declaring that "Texas hits the high in war enthusiasm," Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said Tuesday that so much money had been raised to build a cruiser that a new aircraft carrier might also be named after a famous Texas battlefield—San Jacinto.

Knox has just returned from a trip to Texas where he attended a rally to raise $36,000,000 to build a new cruiser to be named the Houston, which will replace the old cruiser Houston sunk during a battle in the Pacific. So great was the enthusiasm, Knox said, that $85,700,000 was raised.

"We will try to use the other 49 million dollars for an aircraft carrier to be named the San Jacinto," he said.

International News Service

LONDON, Dec. 30—Gen. Alphonse Juin has been appointed commander-in-chief of French armed forces in North Africa, succeeding Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, who replaced the assassinated Admiral Jean Darlan as high commissioner of French North Africa, a Reuter's dispatch said Tuesday.

The dispatch came from the French imperial council in North Africa, which now is headed by Gen. Giraud as high commissioner. Gen.
